

Ku Klux Behind Blaine's Men, Say Democrats

Accusations Brought Out By Statement Of State Committee

CHARGE POISON POLITICS

Klan Looms As New Issue In Fight For Wisconsin Offices

Madison—The Ku Klux Klan raised its head in Wisconsin politics for the first time Friday when the Democratic State Central committee issued a statement signed by W. D. Carroll, secretary, referring to a declared Klan endorsement of Republican candidates as "the most dastardly attempt ever made in this state to poison the minds of the voters in a political campaign."

The statement said that the plans of the organization have just "come to light through the big meeting held in Milwaukee on Saturday night Oct. 7." It asserted that "the fact that state officials granted permission to the Klan to use the state fair grounds is publicly admitted and no attempt was made to rescind the order until after the Democratic candidate for governor called public attention to the danger of such an organization."

"Whether politics had anything to do with this eleventh hour refusal of the governor and other state authorities in charge have not thus far enlightened the public," the statement added.

INDORSED CANDIDATES, CLAIM

"Rumors of the purpose of this organization were in circulation during primary campaign," it continued, but received no serious consideration except from Attorney William J. Morgan, who was a candidate for governor on the Republican ticket against the present governor, John J. Blaine, who like Governor Blaine, received the endorsement of the organization."

"Attorney General Morgan," the statement said, "had vigor and reputation but he had no sympathy for any organization, organized to foment prejudice against any race or creed."

KLAN OPPOSES JEW

"An advertisement of the Klan," the central committee said "indorsed the present Republican candidates with the exception of the state treasurer, who is a Jew and it is now being asked whether this indorsement had any bearing on the fact that all of the aspirants for state office qualify as eligible to the Ku Klux Klan except the treasurer, whose candidacy was forced upon the secret conference held at Madison by influences that could not be denied."

"That the indorsement of this organization was acceptable to the candidates requires no further proof for if it was not desired, the same organization to repudiate the Ku Klux Klan was open to the other candidates as it was to Mr. Morgan."

BLAINE ATTACKS KLAN

Madison—Governor J. J. Blaine declared Friday that he was "unusually opposed to the principles and objects of the Ku Klux Klan and through his executive communications and orders had shown his opposition since the first appearance of the organization in Wisconsin."

The executive said in a statement to the Associated Press that he had never received indorsement of the Klan as far as he was aware and asserted that the expressions of the Democratic State Central committee as far as they referred to him were without foundation. He said that in numerous speeches throughout his campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination he had specifically attacked this society for its activities and its purposes.

Referring to the claim of the Democratic committee that he would have permitted use of state property by the Ku Klux Klan had public attention not been called to the fact by the Democratic candidate for governor, Governor Blaine declared that as long as he was governor, "state property will not be used by any organization which suppresses the identity of its membership, or permits the masking of its officers and members operating in the dark or otherwise."

He said that when informed of the Klan meeting in Milwaukee he had directed the Sheriff of the county to provide deputies at the fair grounds to prevent use of the grounds by the organization.

"My opposition to the Ku Klux Klan has been shown throughout the past year," Governor Blaine said. "I have through executive orders and communications and through campaign speeches let the people of the state know my stand against this organization and similar organizations."

Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer and a member of the state Republican committee, Friday morning declared he had never heard that the Ku Klux Klan was taking an active part in the campaign. So far as he was aware the organization has done nothing for the candidates it indorsed in the advertisement referred to in the above article.

Other Republican leaders in Appleton could not be reached for an expression on the charges.

HOLD JOHNSON IS TURNING TO CONSERVATIVE

Hiram Losing Grip In Los Angeles But Still Strong In North

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1922 By The Post Pub. Co.
Los Angeles—This is the section of California in which Senator Hiram Johnson seems to have lost his grip. So intense is the anti Johnson sentiment that as powerful indeed as the Los Angeles Times has announced that while it will not indorse the Democratic nominee it will on the other hand decline to ask the people to support Johnson.

Some idea of the falling off in Johnson stock here may be obtained by examining the primary vote for president two years ago when so nationally advertised and well liked a person as Herbert Hoover had difficulty carrying Los Angeles county by a majority of 1,500. This year C. C. Moore, candidate for the senatorial nomination and not to be compared with Mr. Hoover in prestige with the community carried the same county by 15,000 votes over Hiram Johnson.

JOHNSON WET?
Strange as it may seem the opponents of the senior senator from California argue that he is no longer progressive and all that sort of thing. "He is dry county and they respect Johnson however reticent he may be on the subject to lean towards the wet side."

Hiram Johnson will have to depend as usual on the northern part of the state for his majority. But he will need more votes from the north to win than ever before. And winning with Johnson in this instance is not merely polling more votes than the Democratic opponent but retaining the support of the Republican rank and file on a numerical basis that shall be the equivalent of a vote of confidence. The Republican registration is practically 4 to 1 greater than the Democratic totals. But California had somewhat the same disproportion between the parties when Woodrow Wilson carried the state by 3,000, years ago and Johnson by 250,000.

CONSERVATIVE CHARGE
Will Johnson win by 250,000? If he does it will mean that California stands back of him as staunchly today as in 1915. But the chances seem to be against such a large vote this time. There is here and there a manifestation of wounds in California politics. Unfriendly critics say Johnson was a good governor but has made a poor senator and that he has been traveling on the momentum he gained while governor. Those who much discussed Mr. Bonar Law is also credited with intention to oppose another coalition government.

The key to the whole situation, according to many observers, is Mr. Chamberlain's attitude and his speech at Birmingham Friday is awaited with intense interest.

AFFAIRS UNITY

Birmingham, Eng.—Austin Chamberlain, the government leader, addressing the Midland Conservative club here Friday declared it would be criminal to break up the present coalition in view of the labor menace.

"I don't pretend to say when an election will occur," said Mr. Chamberlain. "I expect it is the undoubted right of the premier to choose."

SON MUST RETURN FARM TO FATHER

That the farm William Brandenburg, Sr., of Liberty, died over last year to his son, William Brandenburg, Jr., in order to escape a damage suit supposedly to be instituted by his daughters, as alleged, should return to the original owner, but that the son receive adequate compensation for the operation of it the past year, was determined in municipal court Thursday afternoon. The case, which was heard in the upper branch of the court, occupied practically the whole day, the decision being reached about 6 o'clock.

According to the decision, the deed and the bill of sale must be surrendered to the father at once. The son, however, is to receive a $1,000 lien over the cabbage crop, which must be removed by the middle of November. He himself is to vacate, removing his personal property, within two weeks.

SCHUSSMAN CANDIDATE FOR TEACHER PRESIDENCY

L. G. Schussman, superintendent of schools at Kaukauna, is being boomed for the presidency of the Northeastern Wisconsin Teachers association at the convention in Oshkosh this week. Mr. Schussman has the support of teachers in the northern half of the district.

Teachers in the southern portion are said to be supporting R. W. Ehrlich, Fond du Lac, for the presidency. The election is to be held Friday afternoon and promises to be a lively affair. O. H. Pienzeke, Menasha, is present president.

Sheriff's Wife Takes Charge; 3 Prisoners Flee

Balsam Lake, Wis.—"Coxey" Wall, St. Paul bandit, wanted for robbery charges in Polk county and St. Paul, escaped from the county jail here Thursday, together with two other prisoners who were serving short time sentences. The escape was discovered by Mrs. O. H. Peterson, wife of the sheriff who had taken over her husband's duties while the sheriff was out of town on a brief trip. She found all doors and windows securely locked but three prisoners gone. Wall was captured here following a series of Polk county creamery robberies about a month ago.

BAPTISTS OF STATE URGE WORLD LEAGUE

Say Nations Will Perish Unless All Cooperate To Establish Justice

By Associated Press
Oshkosh—Warning that the nations of the world, America included, must either permanently cooperate to establish justice or must perish, and declaring that the immediate formation of a world association or League of Nations is of vastly greater importance to America than any issue now dividing its political parties, the Baptists of Wisconsin in convention here Thursday, unanimously recommended that "our government take measures at once to bring our country into such an association or league."

In support of their recommendation, the Baptists pointed out that in view of the inhuman butcheries in Asia Minor and of the imminent threat of another world war which may wreck civilization, the Wisconsin Baptists declare their conviction that the present international policies of suspicion, self seeking and ultimate reliance on brute force, are abhorrent to the spirit of Christ and some step should be taken looking toward a greater brotherhood of man.

WANT DANCE LAWS
On the heels of that resolution the Baptists went on record urging the next legislature to put on the statute books an "enabling act" which will grant county boards the authority to license, control or prohibit dance halls, pavilions and amusement parks located outside of cities.

They would also give this board authority to prohibit boys and girls under the age of 16 from attending such places unless accompanied by responsible parties.

EXPECT ENGLAND TO PROTEST DRY EDICT

By Associated Press
London—Unless an injunction is granted the Cunard line the British government probably will protest formally through the foreign office against the ruling prohibiting liquors on foreign ships in American waters. It was stated in official quarters Friday. Officials here, however, express the opinion that an injunction will be granted in the American courts.

Washington—Shipping board vessels will remain dry regardless of the outcome of the injunction proceeding brought in New York on behalf of the American privately owned ships, it was announced Friday by Chairman Lasker.

LABOR EDITOR FACES PRISON FOR ARTICLE

Bay City, Mich.—Edwin R. Cornish, publisher of The Workers Voice, a labor paper published in Saginaw, was arranging his business affairs Friday preliminary to facing United States district Judge Tuttle, for sentence on a charge of publishing seditious and inflammatory articles. Cornish was convicted before Judge Tuttle Thursday but the court announced that sentence would be deferred for one week to give the defendant time to arrange his affairs. The articles upon which the charge was based dealt with Judge Tuttle's issuance of an injunction against striking shop men of the Pere Marquette railroad.

GREEN BAY BUILDER PAYS $1 SLANDER FINE

Green Bay—Herman Christensen, a contractor, charged by Building Inspector Marcel Lambau with slander, changed his plea to guilty and was fined $1 and costs of $33.35 in Municipal court. Christensen was alleged to have made remarks reflecting on the integrity of the building inspector during the heat of opposition to an ordinance which recently went into effect creating the new city department.

APPLETON IS ALLOTTED 8,260 TONS OF COAL

Arrival Of Anthracite Uncertain, According To Local Dealers

Madison—Apportionment of the 795,196 tons of hard coal consigned to Wisconsin cities and villages by anthracite sales, was announced Friday by P. H. Pressentin, secretary of the state coal committee.

Available supplies of anthracite, if all consignments reach Wisconsin, will be but 60 per cent of the consumption of last year, Mr. Pressentin says. It is on this basis that each of the cities and villages is given its portion of the total shipments.

Following are the amounts in tons that each of the larger cities are scheduled to receive between Sept. 1, 1922 and Mar. 31, 1923:
Appleton, 8,260; Chippewa Falls, 938; Eau Claire, 1,855; Green Bay, 7,648; Janesville, 5,836; Kenosha, 6,711; LaCrosse, 2,749; Madison, 24,264; Manitowoc, 6,884; Marinette, 1,641; Milwaukee, 260,675; Oshkosh, 13,312; Racine, 22,802; Rhinelander, 139; Sheboygan, 7,633; Superior, 172,149; largely for shipment to interior cities; Wausau, 1,547; and Wisconsin Rapids, 827.

Even under the most favorable shipping circumstance there is bound to be a shortage of hard coal in Wisconsin this winter, according to Mr. Pressentin. He urges that all consumers realize this and conserve their supplies.

Coal dealers in Appleton have not received official notification of the allotment. They also explained that although the coal in Appleton is not shorting it and there is little probability that all of the coal awarded to Appleton ever will get here because there isn't enough to go around.

Dealers here are urging householders to conserve coal wherever possible inasmuch as the supply will be far short of the demand.

URGES WIVES NOT TO DIVORCE MEN IN PRISON

By Associated Press
Detroit—A plea to wives of imprisoned men not to divorce their husbands "and thus fail at the most critical moment of their lives those whom they have sworn to love for better or for worse," was made here Friday by Harry L. Hurlburt, warden of the Michigan state penitentiary at Jackson speaking before the American Prison congress.

"I have seen first offenders make every effort to live down their disgrace and prepare for better things upon their release, only to lose their grip and go down when they realize their wives have cast them off."

ARMOUR MUM ABOUT DEALS IN GRAIN MART

Refuses To Give Federal Body Information For Second Time

Chicago—J. Ogden Armour again Friday refused to give the Federal Trade commission, which is investigating trading in wheat futures, the figures showing the extent of his grain trading in 1920, 1921 and the early months of 1922. Mr. Armour, on the stand Wednesday had refused to give details of his grain transactions and was excused until Friday.

Victor Murdock and other members of the commission tried to shake the decision of the witness. Finally Mr. Murdock, vice chairman, overruled Armour and said the commission would decide later what it might do in the situation.

"In hearings in the past as well as thus far in the inquiry conducted here," Mr. Murdock said, "the commission has been able to obtain from every witness except Mr. Armour, such information as it sought."

Commissioner J. F. Nugent, as well as Mr. Murdock took a hand at questioning Mr. Armour.

"Are you alone the only man unwilling to commission these figures?" Mr. Nugent asked.

"I must decline to answer," Mr. Armour said.

"Of all the witnesses you are the only one who has refused to answer," Mr. Nugent continued. "Shall we report that to the Senate?"

"I don't believe I have anything to do with that," the witness answered. Witnesses Thursday among them A. W. Cutter, one of Chicago's heavy traders on the grain market, testified that large elevator interests, including Armour Grain company and the Rosenbaum company were "short" of the market last May, were principal beneficiaries of the wheat break from $1.46 to $1.16 and were responsible for the emergency car delivery rule which compelled traders on the "long" end to sell at a loss.

WHEAT PRICES GO UP

Chicago—Higher prices for wheat here resulted Friday morning from a rise in Liverpool quotations and from continued transportation difficulties on this side of the Atlantic preventing accumulation of any general wheat supplies and creating an urgent demand for prompt shipment of other grain, especially corn. Most of the selling appeared to be of a profit taking character. The opening which ranged from 1/4 to 3/4 higher with Dec. 1.05% @ 1.09% and May 1.10% to 1.11, was followed by a slight reaction and then a fresh upturn.

FIGHT RAIL WRIT

Chicago—Counsel for the railway shippers said they would ask for a jury trial in the proceedings for a permanent injunction against the shopkeepers.

SAVE ALL PASSENGERS

San Francisco—The passengers of the City of Honolulu which burned at sea, were transferred to the United States army transport Thomas from the rescue ship West Faronal at dawn Friday according to an official message received by the Federal Telegraph Co. The Thomas is due in San Francisco Saturday but it is expected she will be at least a day late.

By Wireless to the Associated Press
Aboard U. S. Army Transport Thomas—The passengers of the burned steamer City of Honolulu were embarking on the transport Thomas from the rescue ship West Faronal at 7 a. m. The weather is fine. More details later.

The above was sent to the Associated Press by Captain Hall of the Transport Thomas.

San Francisco—The radio man's baffle on space, and that hardly less potent thing, the fellowship of those who go down to the sea in ships, stand responsible Friday for the safety of 217 persons—the ship's company of the steamer City of Honolulu, which burned Friday.

YOUNGEST SURVIVOR

San Francisco—Betty May Jones, 23 months old, drifted about the placid waters of the Pacific for six hours Thursday on a lifeboat. She was 70 miles from the nearest port but close at hand was her father, A. P. Jones who numbered her as the youngest survivor of the burning steamer City of Honolulu which then deserted with 217 other passengers.

ton Anderson, brother in law of the owner, E. L. Doherty, who is in New York, caught the appeal and turned their boat for six hours. Los Angeles caught the signals and navy vessels stood by to race with death to the scene of the fire. San Francisco caught the signals, waited awhile until the radio operator on a distant ship, had turned that vessel, too, toward the scene.

FORCED TO LEAVE SHIP

It was this ship, the West Faronal, that swept down the sea lanes to the City of Honolulu and effected the rescue, but she did not get there until more than four hours after the flames had forced the captain, first officer, the chief engineer and the radio operator who had stayed behind to serve to the uttermost the passengers confided to their care, to leave the blazing hulk. The officers stayed to advise, suggest and confer, the radio operator stayed to keep the West Faronal advised, lest she miss the boatloads of passengers, floating nearby and the rescue be delayed.

The fire broke out between 5 and 6 o'clock in the morning, the passengers were put over a 3; the captain left the steamer a little after 10; the West Faronal arrived about 2:30 in the afternoon. By a quarter to four the last boatload of castaways had been hauled aboard the West Faronal and that ship, her every corner crowded with cargo and human salvage, lay to a mile from the fire swept vessel and all hands watched her burn. All hands, that is, but the radio operator—he was busy sending messages that told the world the steamer's company was safe and other messages that kept the Thomas steaming southward to provide for the rescued some smoother comfort than the planking of the West Faronal's decks. The Thomas' officers planned to transfer the City of Honolulu's passengers early Friday rather than risk accident in the darkness of the early morning.

WAIT FOR DETAILS

The Thomas will bring them to San Francisco. They had been bound for Los Angeles. There just before the Thomas reached the West Faronal, the story was broken. Friday morning for shore radio stations ceased communicating with the vessels so that the West Faronal's radio might be used to guide the transport to her. The cessation left much untold—the cause of the fire, the reason it spread with such fierce rapidity, the details of the fight against those more gripping details that made up the story of the fight in life boats and rescue.

Stormont nodded, consulted his map and compass, pocketed both, unbuckled his spurs.

It was an unpainted building, partly log. In the dining room half a dozen men waited silently for food. Dennis saluted all named his company and seated himself.

There was dew on her pale forehead—the heat of the kitchen, no doubt. The girl's thick, lustrous hair was brownish gold, and so twisted up that it revealed her ears and a very

The girl's entire expression altered. "So that's the sort you are," she said incredulously.

UTHOR MAKING 'REG'LAR FELLERS' OF HIS CHILDREN

ernarr McFadden Believes In Letting Children Grow
Strong From Start

New York — A five-year-old girl, in the city can swim a mile, can the bar, dance and walk for hours without tiring. Her three sisters, the oldest of whom is eight, can do as much—and more. All of them are stronger than boys, and prettier than most girls. It's the result of a bringing up directed by their father, Bernarr McFadden.

When a youngster he had been weak and sickly. He determined that his children would be healthier. So he studied the problem, became an authority on physical culture, and now raising his girls to be "regular fellers."

"Almost any parent can do as much," he says. "If only he realizes that small children are nothing more than little animals. They need fresh air, sunshine and exercise."

"With the proper training the strength of most children can be increased from 25 to 100 per cent without much trouble in a comparatively short time."

How? By letting them play the games they enjoy most. To these he explains are found the best exercises for children.

Kitties and puppies as they run, wrestle and roll around the floor under the impulse of playful spirit give an example of exercising that can be improved upon. Babies have the same instinct.

So he begins to train his children when they are but a few weeks old, by placing them face downward in their cribs.

In this position he says the baby tries to force himself up, pushing about and getting resistance at every movement. When he raises his head he strengthens his spine. When he pushes down on his hands he develops his chest.

"The average parent lays the baby on his back. He kicks around all night, but gets little benefit from it, or there is hardly any resistance. But if someone would raise the baby by the hands, flex its arms or push its legs backward and forward, offering some opposition, great good would result."

That's the way Mr. McFadden is now developing his only son aged seven months.

"I want him to grow up as strong as his sisters," says the father smiling.

As soon as they were able they learned how to swim. My wife taught them. They took to this new sport—just another game—rapidly. They were soon able to do a mile. Swimming is one of the best exercises or developing symmetry, poise and that round smoothness that makes or grace. Next to it come walking and dancing.

All these exercises are good for the boy too. But he needs in addition some more rugged sport—boxing, judo or wrestling.

But the child's exercise at all times must be part of his play. When it is fun it is beneficial. But when it becomes hard work it is useless.

If all parents played the games with their children it would be better for both children and grown-ups.

The chief fault with the bringing up of most youngsters is overfeeding. Our children are never fed between meals.

They eat simple wholesome food so to bed between seven and nine, sleep until eight, dress lightly and are growing up—

Healthy and good natured. And the smiles of the youngsters proved it.

TICKETS GO ON SALE FOR AMATEUR PLAY

Tickets for "Jealous Hearts," the amateur play to be given in St. Joseph Hall Sunday and Monday evenings have been placed on sale and reservations are being made at Pitz & Treiber jewelry store in the Insurance building. Children of the congregation and members of the Young Ladies sodality, the Young Men's society and girl scouts of Morning Glory troop are doing their part in selling tickets in order to raise money for the proposed Sisters home.

A special treat will be provided for the audiences on both evenings by introducing a radio concert between the acts. This novel scheme will be possible through the courtesy of Philip Kaufman of the Appleton Electric company.

Another feature of entertainment will be a series of specialties in the third act of the play to be rendered by some of the members of the cast. This is brought about as a part of the plot of the play. The third act represents a house party at which the theatrical folk are present. These persons are called upon to entertain. Alex Hipp, playing the part of Junius Brutus Dang, an actor, will amuse the audience with a humorous interpretation of a popular monologue. Miss Mathilda Dorn, as Flo Atkins, will present a character interpretation of a humorous nature.

Adventures Of The Twins

Oscar Owl Loves Supper
Oscar Owl hung up the receiver of his telephone and chuckled and chuckled.

"Tee hee hee!" he giggled. They say I'm wise and no one knows it better than I. I've just telephoned to George Guinea Pig I knew where he could find a tail and to Flop Fieldmouse I knew where he could lose one.

They are to be here at 8 tonight! Hee, hee! I'll have a treat for my supper but when the time comes I'll have two.

About 6 Tommy Brown came along to look at George. George liked Tommy. Tommy was kind and sometimes lifted him gently and stroked him. George chuckled to himself. Wouldn't Tommy be surprised when he came back next day and found him with a lovely long waving tail!

Pretty soon the hired man came along and stopped. "Hello, Tom," he said loudly. "Ever hold a guinea pig up by his tail and watch his eye drop out?"

"Oh, you exclaimed Tommy. 'Guinea pigs haven't tails!'

The hired man went away laughing. But George's little heart was thumping. What was that he said? Hold him up by the tail and watch his eyes drop out?

Why, if they'd find a tail on him next day they might try it. Well, he'd fix that all right. No tail should they find on him!

Seven o'clock! Eight o'clock! Nine o'clock!

George Guinea Pig was sound asleep. So was Flop Fieldmouse. Oscar Owl waited until 10 then went home supperless and as mad as any thing.

"Flop Fieldmouse! You want to know about him?"

What, he didn't go either because his mama told him a story about a little dog that lost his tail and couldn't go straight.

Chapter 8 — Sally and Martin Become Friends

By Zoe Beckley

BEGIN HERE TODAY
SALLY an orphan, flees from the insults of a new rich mistress, whose son, STANLEY, has befriended her. She gets employment in a soda fountain and makes the acquaintance of

MARTIN, a photographer, who on a motor trip, tries to kiss her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
With a little half smile Sally waited for the outcome of the struggle in the young photographer. She looked confident, but in reality she was anxious. Martin was so obviously torn between the gross and shabby in him and the desire for nicer things.

She felt the pressure of his arm relax. He shrank a little in his seat. His flush of excitement fell to a dull self-consciousness.

"Sure—" he murmured shamefacedly, sincerely. "I want to see you again—be friends."

Sally sighed with relief. "I'm so glad! Because I like you and I want you to be nice friends. I haven't anybody—only the girl that works in the store with me. And I never had a ride in a car. It's been lovely and I'd like to have more afternoons like this."

Martin turned eager eyes on her. "Well, you'll have 'em all right." There was excited pleasure in his manner as he started the engine in what Sally had called a car. Then he added, "Say, you're nice! Know what I mean?"

Sally knew and the rose of deep pleasure colored her cheek. He glanced at her. Again the artist in him stirred. And the nice boy in him was rewarded for winning war.

"Sure I know," laughed Sally. "Nice—the way you are."

Then they both laughed at their mutual admiration and good feeling. Spontaneously Martin caught her hand. This time she responded and they gripped palms strenuously part in fun but mostly in deep earnest.

"I began a pretty friendship," Martin developed the plates that night and eagerly telephoned her to stop in and see the results. Together they exclaimed and rejoiced at the charming outcome.

The young man made enlargements of the best displayed them in his showcase gave Sally copies boastful of his model and felt the touch of an artistic achievement. The girl felt glad and proud of him.

It chanced that in a neighboring big city a newspaper syndicate was conducting a beauty contest. The winner to be judged finally

OLD TIMERS AND KAUKAUNA PLAY HERE SATURDAY

Receipts Of Game Will Go Into Boy Scout Fund; Surprises Are Promised

Stars Of Other Days Will Depend On Strategy Instead Of Brawn To Defeat Kaukauna Legion Grid Team

Appleton's team of old time football stars will get in its final lick of practice this evening for the game with the Kaukauna American legion team for the benefit of the Boy Scouts at Lawrence field Saturday afternoon. The old timers ran through their signals Thursday evening with as much pep as they ever showed in their younger days. While they are not in the best of condition they believe they are good enough to hold the legends in check while they run up a few scores on their own account.

Kaukauna won't find the old timers easy picking—for the first quarter at least. These men, with their football experience, figure they can make their active, trained brains take the place of bodies that possibly aren't in shape for such strenuous work and at least hold their own with their young opponents.

DEPEND ON STRATEGY
Practice indicates the legion team will depend on tricks, fakes and strategy to take the place of brawn in advancing the ball. The men have a lot of plays in the bag and should give an interesting exhibition of the gridiron game.

Considerable attention has been paid to defensive work, brushing up old tricks of tackling and blocking. Several of the men had reputations of being the most deadly tacklers on their teams. "Red" Tomet, whom there never was a better end, showed in scrimmage against Lawrence last year that he hasn't forgotten any of his old tricks. He spilled many a Lawrence player by his uncanny sense of following the ball. Men like Bob White, Joe Frayser, Bob Merker, "Buck" Keeler and Cal Goehner will not be easy to move in the line. They were incomparable players in the old days. Walter Turin has the weight and speed to make a lot of youngsters look pretty bad.

STRONG BACKFIELD
The backfield is a powerful looking aggregation, with Catlin, Sylvester, Bates, Punks, Miller, and a host of others almost as well known, ready to carry the burden. These men have been rehearsing their plays in great style. Kaukauna can look for a lot of surprises when they take the field.

It is believed an immense crowd will see the game inasmuch as all the boys in the city are going to the Boy Scouts and there are no other games in the city Saturday afternoon. The Kaukauna legion boys are donating their services for the game, for which they are deserving of a lot of credit. The game is to be started at 2 o'clock and will be of regulation length. Admission for adults is $1 and for students 50 cents.

Dr. J. D. O'Connor and Dr. W. J. Foote will be the officials.

OSHKOSH PLAYS SUPERIOR NORMAL SQUAD SATURDAY

Game Feature Of Homecoming—Lineup Composed Of Many Veterans

Oshkosh normal and Superior normal will meet in football Saturday, Oct. 14, at the homecoming of Oshkosh normal in the first athletic contest of any kind between these two schools.

Superior has a heavy, fast experienced team composed of men who have starred in recent years in DuSuth and Superior high schools. Oshkosh has a heavy, experienced line, composed of veteran players of exceptionally good ability. Pribe, former York college end, and H. Jensen, regular end last year, are ends of exceptional ability. Pribe established a reputation several years ago as a great defensive end.

HAVE STRONG MEN
In the tackle positions, Captain Edward Hall and Barker played extraordinarily good football against Ripon two weeks ago, the latter making many spectacular plays. In the center of the line, Suss, former all state guard in the normal conference, and Milt Wilson, are powerful and experienced players. Schmidt, last year's regular tackle, will be shifted to center, at which he has had considerable experience.

Oshkosh back field is also made up of unusually fast and experienced men. McAndrew and Sunda, half backs, Curtis and G. Jensen, full backs, and Erdlie, quarter back, are among the best backfield players in the state.

BALTIMORE NEEDS NO GAME FOR TITLE

St. Paul — Jack O'Brien hurled superb ball for the Baltimore Orioles on Thursday, letting down St. Paul with two hits, and the International league champions climbed to within one victory of the minor league title, defeating the Saints, 5 to 1.

While O'Brien was standing the American association champions on their heads, his teammates staged a crushing offensive in the third and sixth, combining four hits off Speed Martin, with three Saint errors, for a total of five runs.

The victory gave the Orioles four games to the Saints' one on the "little world" series. The sixth game is scheduled for Saturday. Both teams wishing to take an off day on Friday, the thirteenth. A Baltimore win on Saturday will give them the series.

It was the first game of the series in St. Paul, the previous contests having been played in Baltimore and the Saints lived up to the expectations of the home fans by starting like winners.

In the second inning, a walk and two strikes gave the Saints the first run of the game. In the first of the third, however, the Birds routed the hopes of the Saint fans by clearing Martin out of the box, while his uncertain support added the International to count five runs.

Both teams tightened up after that. Sheehan relieving Martin and keeping the Orioles in hand, while O'Brien went along the pitcher's route, running his strikeout mark up to eleven. Martin struck out three and Sheehan fanned four.

The low temperature was responsible for some of the Saints' bobbles. For the game was played while the mercury hovered around the 50 degree mark, and the crowded grandstands shivered in overcoats.

Batteries: O'Brien and McAvoy; Sheehan, Martin and Gonzales.

RIPON AND LOMBARD CLASH ON SATURDAY

Galesburg, Ill.—Lombard college will meet the fast Ripon college eleven here Saturday in a game that is expected to be a rigid test for Coach Schissler's men.

MOTHER OF COACHES JONES WISHES THAT NEITHER TEAM WINS

Middletown, Ohio — Not since Tad and Howard Jones, when they as mere boys captained rival "scrub" football teams on the common at Exello near here 25 years ago has the population of that village been so excited over a gridiron battle as it is Friday over the Yale-Iowa clash scheduled at New Haven for Saturday.

The entire population of 100 has chosen sides and there is but one person who has not expressed a choice. That is Mrs. T. A. Jones, mother of the two mentors. She does not want either team to win.

"Let it be nothing to nothing," murmured the mother. "If either boy wins let it be Howard," said the father. "The fame will do him the most good."

Both of the great coaches were born in Exello where they began their careers in the old home-stand founded by their grandfather.

This Is A Family Affair

HOWARD JONES

SOX WIN FOURTH FROM CUBS; EVEN

Chicago—The White Sox evened the city series with the Cubs on Thursday by taking a pitchers' battle, 4 to 3. Each club now has won two games.

The veteran Grover Alexander was opposed by the rookie Dixie Leverette, and more than held his own until the sixth inning, when he began to weaken.

The Sox then started their uphill fight and at the end of the seventh had tied their rivals. Alexander then tightened up and it looked like extra innings until Hooper uncorked a line drive to right which was good for two bases. Collins out moved Hooper to third and Sheely shot a hot grounder over third base, which sent Hooper home with the winning run.

Leverette fielded his opponents to seven hits, three of which were made by Stutz while the Sox touched Alexander for ten safeties. Hooper making three and Collins and Sheely two each.

Batteries: Alexander and O'Farrell; Leverette and Schalk.

VISITORS STAGE BILLIARD MATCH

Billiard fans were given an unexpected treat Thursday night at the A. T. Jones tables with a match played by "Cowboy" Dawson of the Pacific coast and Chaney, billiardist deluxe of Oklahoma.

Dawson is touring the state giving exhibition matches and he was invited to Appleton by H. C. Pindle, state pocket billiard champion. Chaney is also making a tour through the country and decided to visit Mr. Pindle. Having the two men together Mr. Pindle decided to match them for a contest for a purse.

The game ended with 150 points for Chaney and 124 for Dawson. Both played a thrilling game with neither man allowing more than three or four point leads. The game was tied at the 101 mark. Mr. Pindle was referee.

Another match was scheduled between the two visitors at 1:30 Friday afternoon.

HUGGINS RELEASES O'DOUL TO BOSTON

By Associated Press
New York—The first official act of Miller Huggins, on receiving word that he was to be retained as manager of the Yanks for another year was to send Lefty O'Doul to Boston American league.

"Well, here I am, still manager of the Yankees and ready to make plans for another season," was Huggins' greeting to newspapermen. "The first act of the re-elected administration is the release of O'Doul to the Boston Red Sox. We owe Boston a pitcher in the deal which made Dugan a Yank and Lefty has been tagged."

O'Doul was brought here from San Francisco in 1913.

BOXERS DON GLOVES AT MILWAUKEE TONIGHT

Milwaukee — Johnny Mendelsohn, Milwaukee, and George Eagle, New York lightweights and Joey Sanger, Milwaukee and Eddie Anderson, Mobile, Ill., featherweights are billed to box ten rounds before a local club Friday night. The boys are said to be in good condition.

NEW MODELS AT AIR RACE IN MICHIGAN

By Associated Press
Mount Clemens, Mich.—The second day of the national air races at Selfridge Field gave spectators their first opportunity to witness the flight of the new speed creations of the army and navy, eleven of which were entered in the Liberty engine builders trophy race. Two light navy machines were pitted against nine heavier planes carrying the honor of the army.

The meeting on the gridiron between Yale and Iowa will be more or less of a family affair as far as the coaches are concerned.

Iowa, which won the Big Ten football championship in the west last year, is coached by Howard Jones. Yale is looked after by Brother Tad.

The meeting between Yale and Iowa will also offer an opportunity to get an early line on the strength of the east and west in football.

It is to be regretted that Iowa did not meet Yale last year. The Iowa eleven, led by Aubrey Devine, would have given Yale the battle of its life. Possibly this year's eleven will make things as interesting, despite the fact that Howard Jones lost four of his star players through graduation.

Yale in the big games last year showed a team that had much potential strength, but many of the players lacked experience. On form the Yale team of this year should be considerably stronger than the 1921 aggregation.

These two great teams will clash at New Haven, Conn., Saturday, Oct. 14.

LAWRENCE GAME FEATURE OF RIPON HOMECOMING BILL

Parade To Precede Little Five Conference Battle—Plan Program

Ripon—Celebration of the annual homecoming of Ripon college alumni to be held Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 11 and 12, will be under the direction of the college athletic "B" club. Tentative plans are now under way and committees will be named soon.

The Ripon-Lawrence Little Five conference football game Saturday afternoon, Armistice day, will feature the weekend. Every dormitory in the school and every organization of the student body is being asked to contribute to the success of the parade which will probably be held Saturday morning. Several of the houses are planning to hold open house receptions during homecoming.

There will be a roving mass meeting at which alumni will speak and also a homecoming dance.

TWO CONFERENCE GAMES SATURDAY

Chicago—With several cripples in tow, the University of Minnesota football team numbering 25 players, was on the move toward Indianapolis for their game Saturday with Indiana.

It is one of the two intraconference contests scheduled for Saturday, the other being the Chicago-Northwestern clash on Stagg field. The other six teams of the Big Ten meet nonconference contenders with the Iowa-Yale game at New Haven holding the center of the nation's football stage.

Among those present at the Yale exhibition matches and he was invited to Appleton by H. C. Pindle, state pocket billiard champion. Chaney is also making a tour through the country and decided to visit Mr. Pindle. Having the two men together Mr. Pindle decided to match them for a contest for a purse.

The game ended with 150 points for Chaney and 124 for Dawson. Both played a thrilling game with neither man allowing more than three or four point leads. The game was tied at the 101 mark. Mr. Pindle was referee.

Another match was scheduled between the two visitors at 1:30 Friday afternoon.

YE FISHING AND HUNTING COLUMN

Fishermen who have long deplored the apparent absence of black bass from the southern end of Lake Winnebago may arise and rejoice.

From the state conservation department comes the information that good bass fishing in Winnebago and Lake Butte des Morts is assured through an announcement of the U. S. bureau of fisheries that a carload of smallmouthed black bass has been loaded at La Crosse state fish hatchery, to be placed in these two lakes. The fish now being loaded were stranded in holes along the Mississippi river and were rescued by the wardens. There are several millions of the small game fish in the shipment.

Now that the partridge season is over Appleton hunters are looking forward to the rabbit season which opens Wednesday, Oct. 25, and closes Jan. 15. Rabbit hunting is particularly popular with many local sportsmen who are becoming impatient for the opening of the season and the first light fall of snow. The favorite hunting ground for rabbits in this part of the county is Center swamp which is combed by hunters every fall.

The squirrel season opens next Sunday, Oct. 15, and closes Jan. 1.

The invaders were booked to arrive at Richmond, Va., first stop, Friday morning. After the clash there Saturday with the V. P. I. eleven, they were to move onto Mansfield, Mass., arriving Monday.

Lawrence Named Among Six New Districts For High School Tourneys

Lawrence college has been selected as one of the six new districts for high school basketball tournaments. Announcement to this effect was made by Fred Holt, Edgerton, secretary of the Wisconsin interscholastic association. The other new districts are Janesville, Watertown, Marinette, Two Rivers and Rhineland.

These are in addition to the districts already established at Whitewater, Platteville, Stevens Point, Eau Claire, La Crosse, Superior, Milwaukee, River Falls and Oshkosh normals and Stout Institute.

Opposition to the plan has been evidenced by some normals and Whitewater and Oshkosh are the most affected by the establishment of the new districts. It will take some of the strongest teams away from the Whitewater tournament, including Janesville and the two Madison high schools. The purpose of the plan is to provide a more fair method of determining the state high school basketball championship.

JOE BECKETT SCORES KNOCKOUT OVER MORAN

London—Joe Beckett, the British heavyweight pugilist, scored a technical knockout over Frank Moran, the American heavyweight, when the referee stopped their bout in the seventh round at Albery hall here Thursday night.

In another contest, Jack Bloomfield, British heavyweight champion, stopped Bombardier Wells, also of England, in the sixth round.

Soldier Jones, heavyweight champion of Canada, won from the Englishman, Arthur Townley. The referee intervened and stopped this bout in the third round owing to an injury to one of Towney's legs.

NO TEMPERAMENT FOR THIS STAR

Miss Marie Sundelius, who will appear in Appleton on Friday, Oct. 20, to open the Community Lecture and Artist series at Lawrence Memorial chapel does not believe in being temperamental. She has told people who have interviewed her that she sees no difference between temper in less prominent person and temperament in an artist, and that the wear and tear of temper on the nerves shows in time on the quality of the voice.

Some of the singers who have temperament spend their time before a performance trying it out instead of their voices with the result that their interpretation of roles are always erratic, one night vengeful and the next performance routine because the temperament has not been aroused. All I want to do at each performance is to put the best of everything I have at my command in the art of singing into that performance and to put just a little bit more into each performance.

Strong Love Types In "Blood and Sand"

Two vastly different types of women portray two different types of affection in "Blood and Sand." Rodolph Valentino's initial Paramount star picture, Lila Lee, youthful and ingenious evinces a love sweet and tender while Nita Naldi, colorful and exotic sweeps everything away with a volcanic, tempestuous rush of romance.

The love of Rodolph Valentino for these women provides a series of interesting sequences in the Vicente Blasco Ibañez's story of Spanish life which June Mathis has specially adapted for the screen. As Mr. Valentino has an international reputation as a perfect love maker, the romantic episodes had far to be even more popular than the sensational color film periods had before wild bulls in the Madrid bull ring where Juan Gallardo is a famous bull fighter. "Blood and Sand" will be shown the last times today and tomorrow at Fischer's Appleton theatre.

SPIED TODAY

Interest in the "I Spied Today" section of the Post-Crescent, has exceeded even the most optimistic expectations. The Post-Crescent, however, must again advise contributors to the section that their items must be stories of news happenings which escape attention of reporters, written in an entertaining fashion, without comment. Contributors should make their statements as definite as possible, giving names of streets and other facts which lend clarity to the items. Two tickets to Fischer's Appleton theatre are given for every item that is printed in the section "Blood and Sand," one of the most interesting pictures ever produced, is being shown this week and the management has arranged for other productions of the same excellent standard for the winter season.

THREE TIMES AND OUT

Last night a little after eleven as I approached the dark east entrance of Main Hall, a bicycle came around the front of the building and ran in to me. As we extracted our selves from the resulting melee, the rider remarked, "Well, that's the second time I've done that, I never see where I'm going. Last time I ran into a truck. But I'm sorry and I know I ought to be in the road." As a skinned shin and feelings generally hurt, were my only injuries, we parted amicably, but I am not keen for another surprise meeting of that kind.

TIRED OF WAITING

Last night as I was coming from work I noticed a team of horses parked in front of a saloon anxiously waiting for their master to drive them home for a drink also.

Later as I was doing my evening chores I heard the patter of horses' feet, and going over to the road to investigate I was surprised to see the same team coming down the road full speed without a driver, and when they arrived at their driveway they turned in and waited for their driver at the barn.

STILL CRANKING

Monday night while driving along Second Ave we nearly crashed into a car standing in the middle of the road. Getting out to investigate we found a kid about twelve years old, shivering with cold, trying to start that Ford, using no little bad language to persuade it. All efforts on our part to start the thing failed.

FENCE TICKETS

To those who attend the football games "via" the fence ticket route harken to this. Saturday, while attending the Lawrence-Carroll game, I noticed one youngster who tried persistently to gain admission that way. He finally succeeded, but at a greater cost than he would have incurred had he bought one at the gate. He tore his coat, shirt and stocking and injured his arm.

PERSEVERANCE

It takes "Young America" to pass seemingly unsurmountable barriers, as I spied today.

The stairway to the Water tank at the intersection of Washington and Walnut sts. in the Stock Fair grounds has been provided with a solid metal door, a portion protrudes on each side to prevent people from climbing round.

Today, while coming home to dinner, I saw a young boy shin up the door leading to the stairway and start for the top of the tank. My curiosity aroused, I watched until he had gained the very top and was rewarded by seeing him launch a homemade glider and send it on its way to earth.

Having accomplished his purpose the lad descended and made his way over the barrier the same as before. It takes more than iron doors to keep the coming generation from achieving what they set out to do.

A SHIMMY BEE?

Yesterday while I was walking down the avenue, I noticed two young girls, who evidently were school girls, because each had a number of books in their arms.

They were talking and laughing heartily when all of a sudden one of the girls started to squeal and jig on the sidewalk. Her friend asked her what the trouble was but the girl just kept her head down and kept on jumping.

I was curious to know what the matter was so stopped to look as many others were doing. To my astonishment there was a large bee on the bar-pin of her frock.

The bee fortunately did not like her company and calmly flew away. The embarrassed girl darted into the store and disappeared.

VIOLATION OF LAW TO DIM HEADLIGHTS AS YOU PASS CARS

Headlights Should Be So Adjusted That Dimming Is Unnecessary

Do you dim your headlights when meeting other cars at night, and do you hurl invectives at the driver who does not dim his lights? And do you, to show your resentment, turn the full glare of your spotlight directly into the face of the driver who you think is violating the law?

Persons who dim their lights every time they meet another car are evidently not familiar with the law governing automobile lighting and do not realize that they are themselves violating the law.

"Dimming the headlights is one of the most unsafe things a driver can do," is the statement made by John A. Hoeveler, electrical engineer of the state industrial commission.

The state law provides what the maximum and minimum brightness of lights shall be on automobiles driven on public highways during the hours from 30 minutes after sunset to 30 minutes before sunrise, and the only circumstances under which headlights may be lawfully dimmed are when the automobile is parked at the curb or roadside, or as indicated in the following excerpt from Order No. 2154:

"Motor vehicles operating on highways illuminated to such an intensity as to make a substantial object discernible at a distance of 200 feet ahead of the motor vehicle, shall operate with two dimmed headlights, or two other front lights provided the local authorities have erected signs on such highways directing the motorist to so operate."

In regard to spot lights the law reads as follows: "If a spot light is installed on any motor vehicle, it shall be of such construction, as to make it impossible to make the center of the beam of lights strike the level highway at a distance greater than 50 feet in front of the motor vehicle; except that when the beam of light is swung 30 degrees to the right or left of the straight ahead position, no limitation is placed on the height to which the beam be raised."

From a practical standpoint it is bad and dangerous practice to dim the headlights upon meeting another car, because, on a dark night, after the driver's eyes have become accustomed to the bright light thrown on the road by his own headlights, if his lights are suddenly dimmed the road ahead will look perfectly black and it will be impossible for him to see where he is driving and he may easily drive off into the ditch or against some obstruction at the roadside.

Following is a suggestion which, if fairly tried, will convince any driver that it is much easier, safer and better not to dim the lights but to leave the regular headlights on while meeting other cars:

The driver should not look at the lights on the car that is coming toward him, but should keep his eyes closely to that portion of the road directly in front of his car on which is own car is to travel.

By carefully following this suggestion he will avoid being blinded by the lights on the other car and his road will be lighted for him by his own lights so that he can see very well where he is driving. All cars, of course, should be provided with proper non-glare lenses and the lights should be adjusted as required by the law.

Travel on some of the main highways has become so dense that if one were obliged there to dim lights every time upon meeting another car it would amount to traveling almost entirely with dim lights, the danger and unreasonableness of which ought to appeal to any thinking person.

MILLIONS SAVED BY WEIGHT INSPECTION

Wisconsin consumers are saved $1,119,644 yearly on milk, cream and butter through the activities of state and city sealers and inspectors of weights and measures. State Dairy and Food Commissioner J. Q. Emery told the annual state meeting of the city sealers and inspectors this afternoon, in the capitol in Madison.

The total annual expense, for work done both by city and state agencies, costs only $78,697.37, Emery said. Without the inspection agencies, Emery estimated butter would be one ounce short to the pound and declared the saving amounted to $743,750. Eradication of short-measures on milk and cream bottles saves $375,894, he said.

Emery also estimated a correction of an average of 4 cubic inches to every gallon of gasoline sold, a saving of more than $350,000 a year to the public.

MINNESOTA SPUD GROWERS ASSURED PLENTY OF CARS

In an effort to assist farmers to get their potatoes to market, some railroads in Minnesota are giving preference to such shipments over grain loadings. O. P. Jacobson, state railroad and warehouse commissioner, announced Wednesday.

No official priority order has been issued by the commission, however. Mr. Jacobson said this condition obtains only on shipments of potatoes within the state.

HORSESHOE STARS ISSUE CHALLENGE

Firemen Willing To Meet Any-one Anywhere To Pitch For City Championship

Who holds the championship of Appleton in barnyard golf?

Ask this question among heavers and fans and an argument is started immediately. Some of the more cool-headed enthusiasts are talking a championship match to prevent some of the tiffs becoming too pronounced.

There even is a difference of opinion among two of the city's most noted horseshoe pitchers of the horseshoe clubhouse at fire station No. 1. Chris Deltgen and Paul Crouch both claim the city title, averring they have more ringers to their credit than anybody. They expect to get out on the cinder lot across the street and definitely settle the argument.

With this done, they are willing to take on all comers, but not on cinders. The ash surface makes the shoes rebound too much, they say. But they fear nobody and fling their challenge broadcast. A meet will be arranged as soon as one or two of the iron tossers come to the front.

G. A. Stewart, out at Appleton Junction, also claims to be the best tosser and he is one of the men mentioned by the firemen as a challenger. They have one or two others in mind like Harry Kohl and William Meyer, the taxi twins. Neutral ground will be chosen for any meet, and some standard set of rules will be adhered to.

FREIGHT CONGESTION NO LONGER BOTHERSOME

Freight congestion caused by the recent railroad strike has been cleared away and conditions are again normal. All empty cars suitable for hauling grain are being sent to western states for moving wheat and a large number of gondola cars have been ordered north to take care of logging operations. Pulpwood is being shipped into Fox river valley at the rate of about a trainload a day. All logging and lumber companies are making preparations for a busy winter.

THE SQUARE DEAL TO ALL
One of the statements made by George J. Schneider, candidate for congress, in his speech at Denmark Wednesday night was the following:
In paper mills where I worked 25 years ago, 11 hours a day and 18 hours a night in those days, we used to have girls, 14, 17, 18 and 19 years of age that worked 13 hours a night right on the same machine, and doing their work just the same as they are doing it today. They don't work in factories, or mills nights, 10, 11 and 13 hours a day, because of progressive legislation that has been enacted to eliminate these conditions.
Mr. Schneider is quite right in his statement that state legislation has limited the hours of labor for girls and women. Nor can there be any question about its wisdom and beneficial effects.
Mr. Schneider says he wishes to represent the manufacturers as well as the laboring people. Assuming this is correct, assuming that he means what he says, would it not be fair for him to tell the real story about the adoption of the eight-hour day in the paper mill industry in the Fox River valley?
The eight-hour day in the paper mills was not forced upon the owners by legislation. It was put into effect voluntarily. This was done some eight or nine years ago, and it was at this time that the shifts were changed from 11 and 13 hours to eight hours.
It is our impression that the first pioneer papermill in Wisconsin, at least one of the very earliest in the state, to adopt the eight-hour day was a Fox River Valley mill. The mills made this change as an act of justice to their employees and because of the belief that it would increase the efficiency of their working organization.
We mention this not as a brief for the paper manufacturers but merely to cite one of the many instances in which employers of labor have voluntarily adjusted their businesses to meet advanced ideas.
The corrective and regulatory measures adopted by the legislature touching labor have in the main followed the introduction of these reforms by progressive industrial concerns. The legislation was needed generally to compel the reactionary manufacturers who were resisting the change to come in line.
It is only fair to those manufacturers and those employers of labor who have attempted to so operate their undertakings as to keep them in line with progressive tendencies and to practice justice that they be given credit for what they have done, as well as that politicians and law makers and political parties be given credit for what they have done.
All employers are not oppressors of labor. If Mr. Schneider would represent them in congress along with the employees, as he says he is, would it not be right and just for him in this campaign to admit the fact that there are square-deal manufacturers, that there are honest, honorable and conscientious employers of labor and give them credit for what they are doing to improve conditions in industrial life? So far as the Post-Crescent is concerned, it believes in a square deal to everybody, employer and employee alike. Does Mr. Schneider believe in this as well?

TWENTY-FIVE GREATEST WOMEN
The Women's Universal alliance is to engrave on tablets in the Temple of Womanhood, in Washington, the names of the greatest women in the different states. It offers a prize of $50 for the best list of the twenty-five most famous women of Illinois, the list to be accompanied by brief sketches of the women.
This is a practical way to call the attention of the public, especially of the women, to the foremost women of a state. It has the result, also, of interesting the public in state history and in stimulating state pride.
The great men and women of any state are known to the citizens. A few names stand out, as for instance, those of certain governors and soldiers. But state history is comparatively little known.

Every citizen should have fairly complete knowledge of the nation's history and his state's history, and of the history of his county and town.

NEW MUDDLE IN GREEK SITUATION
No sooner have the allies reached an agreement for the occupation of Thrace by the Turks than the reunited Greeks announce that they will keep the Turks out of Thrace. Had this situation arisen while there was discord among the allies, the Greeks probably would have received enough support to make a strong defense and possibly repulse the enemy. But now the allies are in agreement with the Turks. The Greeks are too late. The allies have to fulfill their promises to the Turks, so that they may insist upon the Turks keeping theirs to the allies. The anomalous predicament is possible of the allies actually putting the Greeks out of Thrace in behalf of the Turks.
The allies have avoided a dangerous war, and they propose to be satisfied that the Christian interests will be respected by the Turks. The rest of the world hopes they are right.

RESULTS IN DOLLARS AND OTHERWISE
From the world's series receipts of $605,475 for five games, the players of the Giants got $111,289.37, the players of the Yankees $74,192.91, the players of the St. Louis Browns $18,548.23, the players of the Cincinnati Reds $18,548.23, the players of the Chicago White Sox $12,365.48, and the players of the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates, tied for third place in the National league, $12,365.48.
Each of the 25 Giants receives $4,451.57 and each of the 22 Yankees $3,372.40. Each of the Browns and Reds receives about $742, each of the White Sox about $515, and each of the Pirates and Cardinals about $248.
It pays to be a member of a winning baseball team in either of the big leagues. The extra pay of each Giant for winning the World's championship is equivalent to nearly $400 a month, and each Yankee nearly $300 a month.
The owners of the Giants and Yankees got $82,441.07 each, while the National commission's share was $72,728.45, which goes toward defraying the salary of Commissioner Landis and the expenses of his department.
It does not matter that the owners have lost money on the series, as they say they have. They made their money during the season through increased attendance. Giving the players a large division tends to keep the national game at its best by holding out to them a material incentive to win. Baseball has been placed on a new footing this year. The changes wrought in it are the best guarantee of its future. The changes would not have occurred without Judge Landis at the head and the house cleaning of last year.

PASSING OF THE DEMOCRATIC DONKEY
The donkey, which has done yeoman service, to these many years as a member of the Democratic party, has been repudiated and publicly disowned by the executive committee of the Democratic state committee as a symbol of Democracy in Missouri. In its place as a sign manual of the "unreformed," the Goddess of Liberty has been substituted.
The unceremonious dumping of the donkey as a symbol of one of the major political parties in Missouri will come as a shock to many of the veterans of Democracy in the state. The soundness of the reasons advanced for the change may well be questioned. The Goddess of Liberty as a national emblem is all right, but the lady is too cold, too impassive, too dignified and self-complaisant to arouse enthusiasm where and when it is most needed.
In a national convention or on the stump, mention of the Goddess of Liberty will of course get a hand, but it is difficult to imagine the rank and file in the heat of a political campaign, yelling, vociferating, throwing their hats in the air and getting all "hot" up over this classic figure and costumed lady displayed on a banner, as they would over the buoyant, hope-compelling smile of the donkey. It is inconceivable. Cartoonists have made famous the sad look on the animal's face when the party it represents has made some crass blunder, as well as the satirical "hee-haw" expression when the elephant of the G. O. P. has been kicked in the midriff. Again, why eliminate the familiar feature of politics? Why exchange the good natured vote-getting donkey for the stately, impressive, over-dignified Goddess of Liberty?—ST. LOUIS NEWS PRESS

THE PRESIDENT COULDN'T SLEEP
The president of a great railroad found himself losing weight, falling behind in his work—as he fondly called it—depressed, vaguely alarmed or fearful of some impending evil, fagged out, run down, auto-intoxicated, nervous, and in need of complete vocabulary to describe his trouble, mostly puppy words. Presently he consulted his family doctor. I'm afraid to patronize the patient. At any rate he took the man seriously, mistaking the puppy words for real dog, and gracefully referred him to a neurologist.
Now a neurologist is an anomalous institution. A survival from a past era, a doctor of few words, but those few are simply awful for the layman and their utterance leaves the ordinary doctor practically inarticulate. The neurologist tested the president's patellar and pupillary reflexes (I mention these just to give him a flavor of the neurological atmosphere), considered the patient's enormous responsibilities (one of which was digging turf of a nine-hole golf course), and concluded that the man was on the verge of a "nervous breakdown." So off went the president—not an explosion, as might properly have occurred, but he went away to one of the greatest sanitariums in the country to recuperate and rest, or rest and recuperate. He first tried to recuperate. But no go. The sanitarium doctors tried all their best lines of treatment on him, from shockless electricity to waterless baths, yet he could not sleep. One day when he came out of the mud puddle, the attendant hosing him off noticed a slight breaking out on the president's exquisite skin, and reported this to the doctors. They looked at the rash and opined it was insignificant, although the president now complained that the rash itched a great deal. He firmly believed it was due to uric acid in his system, and the sanitarium doctors could not say him nay. The more they dieted and bathed the president the more he seemed to sour on the treatment. The itching now obsessed him and he intended on consulting an eminent skin specialist in a city many miles away. The skin specialist pronounced the rash trifling and sent the president back to the sanitarium for further correction of his bad metabolism. More diet, more mud. No good. Another week passed and still, the president tossed on his pillow nights. Then he journeyed to still another city to consult another eminent dermatologist, who agreed with the first skin man that the rash was of no particular importance and that the patient should stick to his sanitarium regimen.
Well, this sort of thing went on for weeks. The obstinate president had not yet had his fill of skin specialists. He selected a third in a still more distant town, and presented himself and his skin trouble. The third skin specialist is pretty blunt. He made the president strip naked—none of the others had been so cranky about that. He studied the skin lesions very intently, and then told the president he had the common itch. Of course the president was very indignant and suggested that the doctor guess again. But no, one guess was sufficient. It was plain, everyday itch, scabies, and if the president would permit the doctor to treat him just one night for ordinary itch—
Two days later the president was back at his desk, well. That was several years ago and he still swears feeling about it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Winter Oxforas
I want to wear wool stockings and oxforas this winter, but mother says no. Must I wear shoes? I am 17 years, a junior in high school, and have always had excellent health.—(E. S. C.)
Answer—Well, so far, daughter, it would seem that mother has been right. No irreparable harm will be done even if you have to wear shoes this winter. At the same time I assure you it is healthy, positively healthy, to wear oxforas all winter. If you prefer them, and of course with wool stockings they have shown and thin stockings beaten to a frazzle so far as armor is concerned.
To Dead Cats
Please give me an idea as to what might have caused our cats' death. They were sick for a week; didn't care to eat and lost the use of their back legs; it was so pitiful to see them suffer so we drowned them. We think poison might have done this. Can a person be punished for doing the like?—(Mrs. M. M.)
Answer—The immediate cause of death was evidently oxygen deprivation due to submergence. The fact that the hind legs in animals is a common symptom of rabies, though I am not so good for sick cats. The suspicion of wilful poisoning by some miscreant almost invariably arises when an animal pet dies. Most pets pass on that way, from natural diseases or accidents. No doubt various other common cat diseases may cause loss or use of the hind legs. Rabies in animals does so, at any rate. Veterinary physicians are available nearly everywhere, and their counsel and advice is well worth having when an animal pet is sick.
Oranges and Milk
I have been told that if I eat an orange and drink a glass of milk for lunch it will add neither strength nor flesh, that the strength of the milk is used to digest the orange and vice versa. Is this true? Is it true with all fruits?—(H. M. S.)
Answer—No, it is just Ben Told's piffle. Milk and the tart, sour or citrus fruits do not make a very appetizing mixture, but nevertheless if you like milk and orange for lunch rest assured you will get all the nourishment out of the combination that you could get from them separately.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

MRS. FELTON'S APPOINTMENT
"The impossible has happened," the WHEELING REGISTER announces. That Georgia of all states in the Union, should have the first woman Senator is a seven day wonder to the editorial writers of the country. "For Georgia," the NEW YORK HERALD says, "is one of the states where the men insist that women's place was in the home," and now in spite of its bitter opposition to women suffrage it "has done what the country expected Kansas to do."
But whether Governor Hardwick's appointment of Mrs. W. H. Felton to succeed Tom Watson in the United States Senate "until a successor shall have been elected" is a triumph for women or a very hollow honor with a sharp political slant is a subject that is causing what would be called in Senator Felton's district, "right smart" discussion in the papers.
"Since Cyrano de Bergerac seemed to swing his plumed hat grandly through the air," the BROOKLYN EAGLE thinks "there has been no such graceful gesture as that of Governor Hardwick," and even if it can be discounted merely as "chivalry," the GRAND RAPIDS HERALD contends that "the world sees too little chivalry in public life," and "Georgia's governor, with the cultural backing of the old South, supplies a refreshing and heart warming example."
To Georgia goes "the high honor," the GREENVILLE PIEDMONT observes, "of being the first state to have a woman for one of its Senators," and the compliment, the WASHINGTON STAR believes, is "paid not only to a distinguished woman, but to all her sisters in America."
The appointment, however, as the DANVILLE (Va.) REGISTER points out, "is obviously merely a sentimental one." Because the Senate seat will have been duly filled in the regular election before the upper house meets again, the newly appointed Senator, the NORFOLK VIRGINIAN PILOT assures us, "will never do the togo." Indeed, the CHARLESTON (S. C.) POST adds, "she will be able hardly so much as to try it on."
"But for all that," answers the CHATTANOOGA NEWS, "the tradition is broken. An American woman Senator," and she thus becomes "the heroine of an epochal event," as the BUFFALO TIMES sees it, for "a date will be indelibly inscribed upon the roll of history by the first endowment of a woman with the Senatorial togo."
"A governor, by a stroke of his pen, does what no electorate is expected to do for some years at least," the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER says, giving to Mrs. Felton, the RICHMOND TIMES DISPATCH adds, "a secure and peculiar place in the political history of the country."
Of the woman herself the NEW YORK EVENING WORLD speaks as having "recognized ability." From the new Senator's constituency comes a closer, more detailed view. The ATLANTA JOURNAL sees the appointment "as a fitting tribute to a remarkable personality," and—
"As the first woman member of the United States Senate Mrs. Felton will round out a career long rich in attainments and honors. She has lived through the most stirring history of the country, and she has played her own memorable part. The glory and grief of the eighteen-sixties were hers to share, and hers the fortitude and faith from which a new South sprang."
Many Southern papers join in high praise for the character and achievements of Mrs. Felton, and the MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL suspects that "twenty-five years ago, had she started on a campaign for the Senate and succeeded, she might have served that body more usefully than many of the men from Georgia who have represented that state in Congress."
To the majority of editors, however, especially those of the West, Governor Hardwick's "gesture" is a question of political shrewdness, and thus from the standpoint of what the DETROIT FREE PRESS calls his "pretty bad for the woman's vote," and of his suspected purpose to secure his own nomination by filling the ad interim position with an appointee who could not be a formidable adversary at the election. "It may be," the NORFOLK LEDGER DISPATCH grants, "that Governor Hardwick sincerely wishes to pay a chivalrous tribute to the women of Georgia, or that he wants to show the world that he regards women as being precisely on the same plane of politics, intellectuality, statesmanship and all the rest of it as men," but there remains the suspicion that "politicians are politicians always."
The MILWAUKEE SENTINEL, a Republican paper, believes that the Democratic organization will hail the appointment "as a master stroke of party tactics," for in "a moment that comes only once in the life of a nation, naming the first woman Senator in American history, the Democrats rose to the occasion and stole a march on the Republicans," but "it remains to be seen how women of the nation will look upon the compliment." Its neighbor, the IOWA THINKS "Governor Hardwick may expect the women to be duly grateful for small favors," and the PETERSBURG (Va.) PROGRESS and INDEX APPEAL suggests that he "hoped to win to his support" the large following that Mrs. Felton is said to have among the women of Georgia.
But the PITTSBURGH GAZETTE TIMES hazards the guess that "it may turn out that Georgia women are not as simple as he fancies," and "above all things," declares the ST. JOSEPH (Mo.) NEWS PRESS, "if a political honor is offered a woman it must be in sincerity. Lack of sincerity is invariably a boomerang. The appointment of women to party councils followed by the ignoring of their presence in actual deliberation arouses far more resentment than any failure to appoint them in the first place would cause." The suggestion of insincerity lies in the fact that Governor Hardwick will make the effort to become the regularly-elected Senator from Georgia himself, and in this connection that NEW YORK TIMES observes that "an appointed man Senator who possessed those qualities of head and heart, of broad and constructive statesmanship, which he attributes to Senator Felton might have a disturbing influence in the coming primaries."

Nevertheless the appointment of a woman to the United States Senate remains an accomplished fact, and is, the CHICAGO JOURNAL says, "a symbol rather than a fact of prime importance in itself." For, the JACKSON (Mich.) NEWS predicts, "it may be the thin edge of the wedge," and the MINNEAPOLIS TRIBUNE declares, "Mrs. Felton classifies as a political forerunner, a pioneer, a legal squatter on the frontier." Her appointment "hastens the day when the reality as well as the picture may be enjoyed," the NEW YORK GLOBE is confident, and, the WATERBURY REPUBLICAN adds, "it is time that we become used to the idea."
WAVE OF PURITANISM
Paris—France is experiencing a "vague de pudeur" or wave of puritanism. It is not likely that it will go as far as the parallel movement in America, for nobody yet has come forward with the suggestion that a "voluntary censorship" of movies, drama and literature be established. But there is considerable protest against what seems to many writers the unbridled license of the press.
It began a few months ago with Leon Daudet's novel, "L'Entremetteuse," (the Go-Between). A religious paper, almost a year after the book was published, rebuked Daudet for "pornography." The press took up the clamor gleefully, because Daudet is chief of the Rayolist-Catholic party, and the idea of a Catholic organ rebuking him was too delicious to miss. The only effect that the campaign had on M. Daudet, however, was to increase his royalties by a considerable sum, for the book had scarcely been heard of until then and is now almost a best-seller.
Now the pudibund critics are turning their attention to M. Victor Marguerite's "Les Garcones." This book was well on its way to success before the attacks began, but as a result of them it quickly passed the 100,000 mark—which is a huge sale for a country as small as France.
Several critics say there is "nothing but nastiness" in the book while others, including the capable M. Flammarion, consider it a work of high sincerity and great artistic merit. In fact, the debate resembles very closely the periodical literary wars that break out in America over the publication of some work a little more daring than usual.
One thing that is not heard here, however, is a clamor for suppression. There is of course an ancient member of the Senate who yields nothing to Anthony Comstock as a crusader against the impure, but he was so uproariously laughed out of court some twenty years ago that little is heard of him today.
M. Daudet—a point that adds to the savor of his difficulties with L'Entremetteuse—is one of the foremost agitators against the publications of others, if he deems them dangerous. And his notions of dangerous is "repugnant."
The "Action Francaise" society, publishers of the Royalist daily of that name, maintains a numerous gang of young ruffians whose gay task it is to break up political meetings, assault prominent liberals and socialists, and in other ways "demonstrate" in favor of monarchy. The other night a group of these "camelots du Roi" attended a performance of Griffith's "Two Orphans," which is having a considerable success on the Parisian screen. At an appropriate moment, when the Bastille was being stormed, they began to whistle and cat-call.
The audience, however, instead of following them in their demonstration broke into a thunder of applause and cries of "Vive la Republique."
The Action Francaise proudly related the heroic exploit of its "camelots" but neglected to mention the counter-demonstration.

POTENT ENGLISH
Suen Tont, emperor of China, wants to cut off his pigtail. This news is enlivening, first because few readers have been aware that there was any emperor of China, and second because of the reason for such an unholy desire.
The young pretender to the celestial throne cut along all rights it seems, as long as he adhered to the established education provided from time immemorial for Chinese royalty. But three years ago the lad, then 15 years of age, decided that he wanted to learn English, and started in. He studied hard, two hours a day, and made excellent progress. And then he found how one thing leads to another. The first thing he knew, he wanted to study geography—not the established Chinese brand, but real geography, with modern maps of the world and degrees of latitude and longitude, etc. Thus he found out that the rest of the world was bigger than China, and in some ways more important.
From that, he was lured on to acquire so much of the modern western education that now he wants to ride in automobiles and trains and ships and airplanes and go abroad and find how the rest of mankind lives and what it is doing and thinking.
Yes, there's potency in the English language. One feels like recommending it to a lot of people in this country.—TACOMA NEWS TRIBUNE

London Blue Laws
London, England, is elated at Magistrate Cousins' decision that ice cream, candy and fruit may be sold on Sundays up to 9:30 at night. A confectioner had been arrested for keeping open after 8 in the evening.
The arguments in court sounded like a convention of American wets—solemn talk about "restrictions of personal liberty."
The case was settled by the magistrate digging up the old Sunday observance act, passed in 1687, a procedure that sounds familiar to any one acquainted with American courts. Law everywhere usually is more precedent than common sense.
Do you want a purple tree on your lawn? Or a blue or red? A German chemist perfects a process by which a tree, while growing, can be transformed into any of these three colors. His method is to feed liquid dyes to the roots. They rise through the sap cells and color the leaves. Rather a foolish thing to start circulating in a world quick to adopt the atrocious. Green is the most beautiful color, also most restful to the eyes. That's why nature uses it in grass, leaves and nearly all vegetation. Imagine the country an endless mass of purple, blue or red!

People of influence induce the Japanese government to suppress the news about a murder. The Kobe Herald appears with this headline, "The Terrible Tragedy." Below is a blank space.
You can't imagine it happening in America. And that is the chief reason we have no such autocracy as have the Japanese. Freedom of the people begins with freedom of the press. It also ends when press censorship begins.
Crime among children is increasing rapidly in Russia, say Bolshevik newspapers. Editorially the Izvest estimates that Russia has 70,000 professional child criminals. For this, blames "an unprecedented state neglect by the parents. That and poverty. Heredity is a minority cause."
The average city dweller is not a lover of pets, says Frank D. Hutton, secretary of the Pet Dealer Association.
He finds foreign-born citizens "ver fond of pets," especially German, Irish, Scotch and Italians.
The leading demand in the pet business now is for pigeons, which are selling at $5 to $150 apiece in New York.
It is all very fine to be kind to animals. But a good deal of affection is wasted on pets that should go to humans.

WOMEN AND MEDICINE

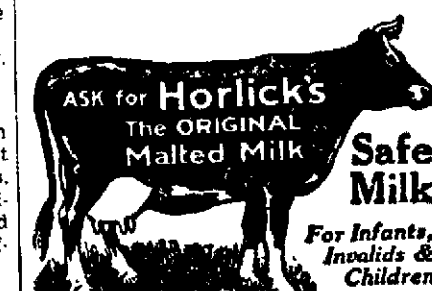

In Europe, years ago, a woman named Hildegard wrote a notable book on medicinal plants. In those days the men were too busy bothering about dogmas of religion and medicine, and the study of herbs was thought beneath their notice.

It was the women, however, who mostly conducted the hospitals and cared for the sick, and thus they learned much of great value. They let the men fight out the questions of theories.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, prepared almost fifty years ago by a woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, did then, and does now, relieve the ailments peculiar to women. It is a vegetable compound and of great value for this purpose. This is proven day after day, and in your own neighborhood, by grateful women who have used it.

CARELESSNESS IS BIGGEST CAUSE OF AUTOMOBILE FIRES

More Than $10,000,000 Worth Of Cars Destroyed By Fire Last Year

Automobile fire insurance companies last year, paid out nearly $9,500,000 for motor cars that went up in smoke!

That doesn't include the insurance paid out by mutual and specialty companies, which fire insurance agents estimate would add another $1,000,000 to their figure.

Neither does this sum include the loss incurred by that inestimable number of car owners who failed to insure themselves against fire.

Yet fire, say insurance men, here, is one danger toward which automobile owners look lightly. Fire? There's hardly a chance for their machine to go up. They take special pains, they say, with lights and such when they are near their cars.

But they don't refute the insurance authorities. Carelessness, they say, is just what starts 80 per cent of the automobile fires. Not so much lighting a match in the tank, as snooping around the gasoline line with a lighted cigar—unconsciously—in one hand.

That is a direct sort of carelessness which should be guarded against. But there is an indirect kind which causes most trouble. This is the kind of carelessness which allows the valves to get leaky and the fuel line to get loose-jointed; where exhaust connections are neglected and wire insulation is rubbed off, and wherein engine pan and crankcase become so oil-soaked that the only way they can be cleaned is by burning, through spontaneous combustion.

Short circuits start fires. Batteries have been known to explode when the hydrogen they generated mixed with the oxygen of the air and became so inflammable as to cause a fire.

To avoid such an occurrence there is just one guide. That is careful attention to all parts of the car. The engine, wiring and fuel systems should be kept in good shape at all times. Flames should be kept away and no chance should be given for a spark to ignite an inflammable vapor. Backfiring should be avoided. All wiring should be examined regularly. Gasoline should not be spilled carelessly. The motor should be allowed to cool before being cleaned.

If a fire happens to start do not use water to extinguish it. Water will only scatter burning gasoline. The gasoline supply should be shut off and the fire should be smothered with a lap robe, or with sand or oil.

NYHUS RESIGNS TO TAKE U. S. POST AS CROP STATISTICIAN

Farm Agent Of Bank Leaves Soon For Larger Field Of Agricultural Work

Paul O. Nyhus has resigned as farm agent of the First National bank to accept a federal position as agricultural statistician for the state of Wisconsin. He succeeds Joseph A. Becker, who has become prominent in the state for the crop reporting service he has built up.

Mr. Nyhus' appointment becomes effective Oct. 15 but he does not expect to leave Appleton for Madison, the location of his new office, until the latter part of the month.

In his work here for the last two and a half years as head of the banks' farm department he has helped to build up the membership of dairy, breeding and farm organizations and has been the originator of many rural events and gatherings which have made Outagamieco, conspicuous in the state. Some of his pet projects were the Holstein and Guernsey dairy excursions, a boys' and girls' club, exhibition of purebred cattle at county and state fairs, annual consignment sales, cooperative use of noted herd sires and many other ventures.

PROMOTES ALFALFA
Cultivation of alfalfa has increased by hundreds of acres through promotion work of the farm agent and he has been instrumental in raising many farms of cabbage diseases through obtaining purebred seed and by inaugurating seed inoculation.

Mr. Nyhus will have his headquarters at Madison. He is to work under the government bureau of agricultural economics and the state department of agriculture, headed by C. P. Norford, commissioner. These organizations conduct the statistical office jointly. The larger field of agricultural work was what appealed to Mr. Nyhus.

Mr. Becker has been promoted to a position in the department of agriculture's offices in Washington, where he will be in charge of the bureau of improved methods of crop reporting. His advancement is a recognition of his work in Wisconsin, where the accuracy of his crop reports has given him prominence.

Habit Of Giving Is Not Confined To Christmas

Just to take one look at the many gift shops and gift departments is to know why people are giving each other more little gifts in between the Christmas and birthday times. The growth of the gift shop idea has been due to a large demand for clever little gifts at the holiday and commencement seasons, but now that people have the opportunity, they are rapidly developing the habit of giving.

"Just a short while ago," said one dealer in numerous little gifts, especially for girls and women, "we never had our specialties displayed except at the holiday and commencement season, but look around now. Lots of people come in with no intention of buying something for someone else and while they are being waited upon their eyes light on something which they know a friend would like. People like that never think of waiting, they just buy and give it right away."

With the advent of beautiful pottery, desk equipment, candle sticks and candles themselves into shops, many people buy these things for themselves. Often a woman will see just the little bit of bright color which she has been waiting for and after looking at it from all possible

WANT STATE TO CONTINUE ITS AID FOR HIGHWAYS

Appeal will be made to the legislature by county boards asking that it continue state aid for highway construction in an amount totaling at least $785,000 annually.

The Wisconsin state aid program is completed this year and further provision must be made by the legislature if it is to be continued. Claim is made by the legislative committee of the county boards' association that certain counties bonded for road building with the expectation and practical guarantee that state aid amounting to at least $785,000 would be forthcoming for an indefinite period.

9 PEOPLE WANT PARROT

It was only a few days ago that someone offered a parrot for sale through a Want Ad in the Post-Crescent. Now you would hardly imagine that there were many people in Appleton that wanted a parrot, or if you wanted to sell one where would you look for a buyer. The party who offered this particular parrot told a Post-Crescent representative that the Want Ad resulted in nine inquiries from persons who were interested in buying a parrot. And the parrot was sold.

Every night there goes into 10,000 homes in Appleton and vicinity a medium—so powerful that—no matter what you buy sell, rent or exchange it will find and bring prospects to your door. It makes no difference what you wants might be—a Want Ad in The Post-Crescent is the QUICKEST, SUR-EST and MOST ECONOMICAL means of filling your WANT.

28 ANSWERS TO THIS

John Stein, Route 9, Little Chute, drove way to Appleton to make sure that his ad offering a rabbit hound for sale did not run again on the Post-Crescent Want Ad page. The reason was that the first man who answered the ad bought the dog. Mr. Stein said that had he had 27 more rabbit hounds he would have had no trouble selling them for there were 27 other people who answered the ad. He also said some of the calls came so late that he had to get out of bed to answer the phone.

DISABLED VETS GET U. S. HELP THRU RED CROSS

Post-War Service Of Red Cross
Proves Excellent Community Investment

That post-war service of the Red Cross is proving a good investment for the community is seen from the list of disabled former service men who have received money on claims handed by the local Red Cross chapter in the last six weeks.

A veteran living in Osborn, who is a married man and has several dependents, has been given federal vocational training and is now receiving $135 a month.

Another former service man of Darby, who was wounded in both legs was awarded $5 a month from the time of his discharge and recently received a check for $250. He will continue to receive an allotment of $5 a month.

Seymour has a World war veteran who is married and upon whom several dependents for this a month, and he is now receiving the efforts of the Red Cross in his behalf, receiving $63 a month.

A married man of Ellington, with dependents, is now receiving $5 a month, and a veteran of Romania, who also is married, has secured an allotment of $12 a month.

Of three Appleton former service men who have been helped during his period, one is receiving the maximum compensation for war disability, namely $50 a month; another is receiving vocational training in the sum of $10 a month; the third who was awarded $20 a month with all back pay, recently received a check for more than $500.

All but one of these closed claims Miss Ann Helm, executive secretary said were filed since the fall of 1921. Three new claims have been filed since the six weeks. While the Red Cross is settling these recent claims claimants who filed in 1919 and 1920 who are being out or who have never settled their claims, are coming to the office for further service and additional assistance in processing their claims. Five men have been hospitalized during this time.

Compensation received by men depends upon their disability rating. If their rating is less than 10 per cent, no compensation is received. Disabled men are receiving all the way from $5 a month to $50 the latter amount being the allotment for total disability.

PAPERMILL MEN TO TALK REFORESTATION PLANS

Fox River Valley paper manufacturers who attend the meeting of the woodlands section of the American Paper and Pulp association in Chicago Oct. 17 will discuss reforestation of the lake states. It is said many of the mills here will be represented. An appropriation has already been asked by the United States Department of Agriculture for the establishment of a forest experiment station on the lake region. This station probably will be located in Wisconsin or Michigan.

Forest problems facing Ohio, Minnesota, Illinois and Iowa would also be studied by this station.

Members of the paper and pulp association are intensely interested in seeing the station opened. Similar stations in other parts of the country have proved very successful.

Fifteen organizations, members of the paper and pulp association will hold conventions in Chicago during the week beginning October 17.

Counting Calories Is Favorite Indoor Sport In Many Appleton Homes

Desire To Grow Thin May Have Disastrous Consequences If Carried To Extremes, Doctors Warn Calorie Chasers

BY MURIEL KELLY
Appleton has joined the throng of "Calories of the Calorie" and literally hundreds of women and many men have purchased one or more of the several books which decry the fat person as the tragedy of the earth. The study of calories in diet and feeding is not new to dietitians and doctors, but the fad of "eat and grow thin" is comparatively recent and at present, most flourishing.

Any gathering of women, where the ex-fat lady is not present is like to come to this bit of conversation sooner or later, most probably after the light refreshments, which top off an afternoon of bridge.

Mrs. Seandee is dining. She bought one of those calorie books. "Have you seen her lately?" "Yes, she's thin, but she looks absolutely haggard. I would rather be actually fat than look ten years older."

BUT IF SHE IS PRESENT

But where the ex-fat lady is present the conversation goes something after this manner, especially when she refused the perfectly delicious looking cake and only plays with her ice cream.

"My dear, you are getting so thin. Are you well? You look worried!"

"Yes, I am perfectly well, never felt better in my life. Perhaps I am a little tired today. That's all."

Some admit the calorie system of losing weight quite readily, while others reveal their secret only in a choice circle of friends. Then somehow it gets out that she has lost 20 pounds in a month, which even her friends think is too much, or that she really does not diet all the time for they have actually seen her eating a full meal. It must be worry because they happen to know that she eats potatoes, candy, cake and ice cream.

WE EAT TOO MUCH

To those who cling to the idea that dieting is silly and besides that it injures one's health, the fact that many doctors do not look with disfavor on regulating one's diet according to calories is a revelation. The doctors do that themselves in feeding babies. Most of them disapprove of a starvation method, but as one put it, that process has brought money to many pockets for prolonged hunger is liable to cause gastric ulcers and other digestive disorders. "Sensible dieting will harm no one," said one doctor. "We all eat too much and few of us realize it. It hate to have a patient of mine come in here after she has lost 20 or 30 pounds in a short time, but people really do not have to be fat if they do not over eat. Of course, you realize that two people may be the same size but the nature of their activities may cause one to burn up more fuel than the other. The danger of the fad of growing thin is that people become too enthusiastic for the first month or so and go at it rapidly without really knowing how many units of heat they need to sustain life."

DO IT GRADUALLY

"If people would keep away from the second helping of everything" said another doctor. "There would be no need of this losing weight. Some one is getting rich off people's desire to be agile, but the women especially carry it too far. I have patients who are underweight according to all scales and still they insist that they are too fat and come to me with tales of diet. Most everyone eats too much, but if they must grow thin, tell them by all means to do it gradually."

What the doctor said about people being underweight and wanting to get still thinner is true of many women and the books on foods have shown that. Correct weight for a mature woman is computed as follows: Multiply the number of inches that she is taller than five feet by five and a half then add plus 110. In other words, a woman who is five feet six should weigh six times five and one-half plus 110, which is 143.

Another scale is a sliding one which is a little harder to figure out. This scale makes allowance for differences in individuals and requires that the number of inches in height be multiplied by anything from 1.8 to 2.5. The same five feet six woman would weigh anywhere from 118.8 to 165 pounds.

COUNTING CALORIES

The whole idea on which the people are working is the number of calories which it takes to sustain life. By elimination of foods carrying a large amount of heat units or by using the minimum of these foods, they are able to take into their system only that amount of food which will be used in the energy of the day. Anything over that is stored in the body as surplus fat. Although the starvation method may bring about quick results, the constant care of the diet, according to those who claim that they are losing sensibly, will make one just normal.

One book gives a set of don'ts by which its followers live: "Don't sleep too much. Don't take naps. Don't overeat, even of the lean dishes. Don't eat unless you are hungry. Don't drink with your meals. Don't drink alcoholic beverages. Don't eat bread, except gluten bread toasted and this in moderation. Don't take a cab, walk."

J. C. Penney Co. opened its new store in the new Insurance building of the Aid Association For Lutherans Thursday and while many of the fixtures and background for the handsome display windows were delayed in arriving, the opening was nevertheless a success and very gratifying to the manager, J. R. Whitman, who came here from Watertown. He has been with the company for 12 years. It will be several days before the company is settled in its new quarters. This was not apparent, however, to the hundreds of people from Appleton and surrounding cities who attended the opening.

The store is the third opened in Wisconsin this year, the other two being in Janesville and Marinette, and its number is 371. The other stores are in 27 states.

Mr. Whitman has as his assistant and advertising manager, P. J. Panet, who came here with him from Watertown.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache often means you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. An excess of meat may form uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels off can get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

John Martin and W. L. Evans of Green Bay, and John A. Kuypers of DePere were Appleton visitors Thursday.

MILK THE BEST FOOD for Man and his Young

Dr. Brady, who writes "The Ways of Health" in Chicago Daily News, had in last Wednesday's issue the following under the heading "A Talk on Lime":

In a recent work on the chemistry of food and nutrition Prof. H. C. Sherman of Columbia university gives it as his opinion that the ordinary mixed diet of our citizens, at least of dwellers in cities, is probably more often deficient in calcium than in any other chemical elements.

Calcium (lime) constitutes 2 per cent of the body weight, so a man weighing 150 pounds has or should have three pounds of lime in his chemical constitution. This lime is contained largely in the bones, which includes 99 per cent of it.

Man eliminates a certain amount of lime from his system in one way and another each day, and in order to maintain a normal reserve of the element in the body he must inject a certain minimum quantity of lime in one form or another. The amount of lime required per diem to maintain this reserve is estimated by good authorities as about fifteen grains. That amount would be obtained in about one and one-half pints of milk. Many other foods contain lime, but not in such ample quantities as milk. For instance, the cereals, the roots and tubers and various meats are rather poor in lime, and these are the foods on which American people, especially in towns, chiefly rely.

An expectant mother, as well as a nursing mother, must consume at least a quart of fresh milk daily if she means to keep herself and her baby in the best of health, for there is a considerable demand on her lime reserve for the development of the baby's bones and later for the secretion of milk, which is rich in lime.

A pint of milk contains as much lime as seven oranges, three egg yolks, two ounces of cheese, seven ounces of beans, ten ounces of carrots, five ounces of oatmeal, or two ounces of peanuts.

Some competent students of the question advocate the addition of lime carbonate to the salt in the salt cellar for the table and for cooking. Equal parts of powdered calcium carbonate and salt might well be used in this way in households in which fresh milk is not freely supplied for every person.

The physiologist Loeb has shown that calcium of lime diminishes nervous irritability, and clinically we believe lime salts produce a sedative effect in many health disturbances due to hyperthyroidism, which condition overstimulates metabolism or the output of energy. Much milk then, is good for nervous people. Well, much milk is good for us all. I prefer mine skimmed—I mean I am doomed to take it that way, but not grow any fatter. But all except fat people should take not less than a quart of fresh milk every day for health's sake. This custom harmonizes with every good teaching from Metchnikoff down.

Pure fresh milk is the best food and medicine thus far discovered for man and especially for his young.

When making your menu comply with the above, be absolutely sure that the milk you use is
